During Coffee County Commission meeting Bid awarded for Mount Pleasant and Ino senior citizen centers

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The Coffee County Commission held its regular bimonthly meeting Tuesday morning, May 27, and wasted no time in taking care of business.

Commissioners began the meeting by awarding the bid for the construction of the senior citizens centers at Mount Pleasant and Ino.

Commission chairman Robert Stephens said the bids were opened last week, and he asked county administrator Wilson Mobley to present those bids Tuesday morning for those in attendance to hear.

There were six bids for the construction jobs including: Anderson Builders of Dothan ($404,735); J.B. Head Construction of Ozark ($502,748); R&S Construction of Rehobeth ($410,000); Rankin Construction of Dothan ($410,500); Russell Construction of Elba ($600,000); and Slingluff Construction of Dothan ($419,000).

According to Mobley the bid amounts reflected the price to build both centers, and he said the architect had reviewed the bids.

Upon the recommendation of the architect, Stephens then made a motion followed by a second from commissioner Bernest Brooks to accept the low bid and award the contract to Anderson Builders of Dothan at $404,735.

Coffee County Revenue Commissioner Ronnie Burns was next on the agenda to address the commission, and he presented the tax settlement report for approval.

Burns said the overall collections for the county were 13 percent higher in 2002 as compared to 2001. He said the total collections for 2001 were $7,553,371, and the total collections for 2002 were $8,561,024.

"We've had an awful good year," Burns commented.

With that said, the commission voted unanimously to accept the tax settlement report for the tax year of 2002.

While presenting general business, Mobley informed commissioners that the process for purchasing the new vehicles for the sheriff's department is progressing, and he said the department has a 1992 Chevrolet Caprice ready to be declared surplus.

Therefore, he recommended the commission declare that vehicle surplus so he could list it on GovDeals for sale.

Commissioner Jim Thompson said it was his understanding that four vehicles would be sold with the purchase of the new ones.

Coffee County Sheriff Ben Moates said he would have to wait until the new vehicles arrived before the other ones could be sold.

To this, Mobley said it was his understanding that the 1992 Caprice was the only vehicle not being used at all at the present time.

Before accepting a motion, county engineer Randy Tindell asked the commission to also allow some spare tires to be declared surplus and listed for sale. He said the tires would be listed separately from the vehicle and would be divided into categories (cars, trucks, etc.).

The commission voted unanimously to declare these items as surplus and list them on GovDeals.

Mobley also announced that the sign up dates for the Coffee County Farmer's Market Vouchers Program will be June 11, 12 and 13 in the community.

Everett praises passage of 2004 defense authorization bill

The U.S. House of Representatives has passed the $400 billion 2004 Defense Authorization Act (HR 1588) that includes $1.3 billion in defense spending impacting Southeast Alabama.

Congressman Terry Everett, R-Rehobeth, announced last week.

Everett, chairman of the House Armed Services Subcommittee on Strategic Forces, secured $342 million in additional funding for Southeast Alabama defense programs, including training and testing at Fort Rucker, new construction at Maxwell-Gunter, new Blackhawk helicopter production at Tallassee, and testing of a new anti-missile system to be partially produced at Pike County's Lockheed Martin.

"As Fort Rucker is set to begin Flight School XXI for Army aviators, I was pleased to secure $148 million in additional funds to ensure the training program has the resources to adequately prepare our future Army helicopter pilots," Everett said.

"While I supported the Administration's original request for $500 million for flight training, it is clear that student backlogs and the need to expand flight experience in combat aircraft has created the need for increased funding," Everett continued. "Of course, flight training funding at Fort Rucker is key to the maintenance work performed on post by Dyncorp and instructor pilot services provided by Lear Siegler."

"The 2004 Defense Authorization Act also includes my request for $74 million in additional funding for the U.S. Army Aviation Technical Test Center at Fort Rucker," Everett observed. "This increase is necessary for the ATTC to achieve a higher level of efficiency in the electronic collection of flight test data."

"Also of interest to Fort Rucker is the defense bill's inclusion of $1 billion for further research and development of the RAH-66 Comanche helicopter. Training for the Comanche, once in production, will take place at Fort Rucker."

"For Maxwell-Gunter, Air Force Base in Montgomery, I was pleased to see granted my request for a $12.6 million Integrated Operational Support Facility," Everett said. "The project will upgrade and consolidate the Gunter Standards Systems Group computer and communications operations by bringing them together in a single modern facility. I was also happy to support the Administration's budget request for $13.4 million for Phase III of the Squadron Officer School Dormitory at Maxwell. These

Ballard Bridge project draws closer to completion

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Coffee County's Ballard Bridge long ago became infamous for its dangerous crossings which sometimes led to deadly accidents, but that story will soon change as the construction of a new bridge continues to near its completion.

It was just over a year ago, April 16, 2002, when the Alabama Department of Transportation announced the beginning of the Ballard Bridge project with McInnis LLC of Montgomery as the primary contractor. Today, David Jewell, bridge superintendent for McInnis, says the overall project is running about six percent ahead of schedule.

"The old bridge is a dangerous place," Jewell said. "It scares me to death every time a tractor trailer comes up because you never know what will happen."

Although McInnis is the primary contractor for the overall project, Jewell said the company has only done the concrete work itself for the bridge. As for the other aspects of the job, he said subcontractors have been hired such as S.A. Graham of Brundidge to do the dirt work.

"We started our work in July of last year," Jewell said. "As of now, the riding surface of the bridge is finished, but it still needs the rails."

He also said the dirt work began this week, and the completion of this portion of the project will depend greatly upon "Mother Nature" and the amount of rain the area receives in the upcoming weeks.

"Every time it rains, it pushes

This photo gives a good view of the riding surface of the new bridge. Once completed, it will be much wider than the current Ballard Bridge which should provide much safer travel for motorists. Traffic continues to travel along Ballard Bridge while work continues on the new bridge.

the projected completion date out that much further," said Jewell. "This means three or four inches of rain could push the project back as much as a month."

He did say the project has been fortunate in regards to the river because it has not risen enough at any given time to interfere with the work.

The current projected date for completion is July, but Jewell said it is most likely to be September before the bridge is ready to be opened to traffic.

Until that time, he said the subcontractors will continue their work in completing the dirt preparation, installing the guard rails, pouring the asphalt and striping the roadway, as well as, any other job needing to be finished in order to open the new bridge.

"It's going to be so much better out here in a few months," Jewell said. "Maybe we won't have any more wrecks before then."

Excitement building in Elba during sesquicentennial celebration

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Interest is growing and excitement is building as the City of Elba continues its year long celebration of 150 years with "Celebrate...Elba 150."

Elba Chamber of Commerce director Kaye Whitworth said the Sesquicentennial committee has been hard at work planning events throughout the year to help the former and current citizens of Elba celebrate the town's rich history, and she said some of the year's best events are just around the corner.

"We've had great participation thus far with our events, but we are looking forward to even more as we really get busy in the upcoming months," she said.

The next item on the agenda will be the beginning of ticket sales for the Aug. 23 George Jones concert.

Whitworth said this is a first time ever event for Elba as one of country music's biggest names will deliver one of his legendary shows for the city's birthday celebration.

Tickets for this event go on sale tomorrow (Friday, May 30) at 8:02 p.m. from Elba City Hall. There will be reserved and general admission tickets sold for the event.

One of the most exciting events to come will more than likely be the July 12 Elba Birthday Party as all citizens will be able to gather around the historic downtown square beginning at 6 p.m. to help celebrate this occasion.

Whitworth said the evening will be filled with food, entertainment and fun for the whole family with a breathtaking fireworks conclusion.

"No one will want to miss this fireworks expedition," she said. "It's going to be the biggest Elba has ever delivered."

Also, she said there will be a "surprise" birthday cake for the event and the one-and-only Dr. Sam Faulk will be in town for the celebration.

"There will also be a great opportunity for Elba families to have their picture made on the square during this 150th birthday party," Whitworth said.

As the events continue through October, four days have been designated that month for the celebration of Elba's history.

It will begin on Thursday, Oct. 9, with the presentation of the "History of Elba" play. The next day (Friday, Oct. 10) will begin with a prayer breakfast at Elba First Baptist Church with the remainder of the day focusing on an Elba Business Expo on the square.

"Friday, Oct. 10, has also been designated as Elba Sesquicentennial (shirt day)," Whitworth said. "Everyone will be encouraged to wear their sesquicentennial t-shirts on this day."

The Sesquicentennial Festival and grand celebration will be presented Saturday, Oct. 11, around the downtown square and promises to be a great day with several highlight events such as a parade, entertainment and boat rides down the famous Pea River. Whitworth said published author and former Elba resident Bob Inman will be the keynote speaker at that event.

This four-day event concludes with a reception on Sunday, Oct. 12, as many former and current dignitaries will be invited to come and join in the celebration.

"Although we are really looking forward to these highlight events, we hope everyone will take the time to participate in all the upcoming events," Whitworth said. "This is such an important time in history for Elba and its citizens, and the hope of the sesquicentennial committee is that anyone who shares a love for the city will come out and help us celebrate in fashion."

PASTOR'S CORNER Rev. John Baxter Elba United Methodist Church

Something to think about

The rest of the world must surely marvel at the nature of religion in America. For example, you may have read in the newspapers sometime back about the newly formed positive impact church in South Centre, Pa. according to associated press reports this church advertised a rally. Two thousand people signed up. Apparently they didn't read the fine print. They had to attend Sunday services to be eligible to win the prize of $1,000 only about 30 showed up.

"Where are all the people?" asked the minister, George Lane, after an hour of religious songs and a humor-filled sermon in a school cafeteria. "It's kind of embarrassing," Lane said he was hoping to get about $1,000 in contributions. He got about $100. A woman who was present won the $1,000 but told Lane to keep the money for his ministry. Despite the low turnout, Lane said he's going to keep trying to attract worshippers. He says his next drawing will be for a $1,100 shopping spree.

Or how about this one? Did you know that there is a church in San Francisco called the Saint John Coltrane African Orthodox Church? John Coltrane was one of this country's most talented and respected jazz saxophonists. Sadly, he died in 1967 at the age of 40. But some people believe that his spirit is alive and well at the Saint John Coltrane African Orthodox Church. Frantz Wayne King, a huge fan of Coltrane's music, founded the church where weekly services feature a blend of worship and jazz music. Coltrane is immortalized in a mural on the church wall that depicts him as a haloed, white robed saint playing a blazing saxophone. The church is a popular tourist site in San Francisco, and Frantz King likes to claim that, "sometimes folks come in here, and the music's so loud it scares the devil out of them."

Summer Reading Program to begin in June at Elba Public Library

The Elba Public Library Summer Reading Program "Books Ahoy" will be held every Tuesday in June from 3:30-4:15 p.m. Grade groups include: K-3 and 4-6.

The Crimson Tide football team is not the only award winning organization in Bryant-Denny on game day. The University of Alabama's Million Dollar Band was recently awarded the 2003 Sudler Trophy, 2002 Elba High School graduate Stephanie Sasser was part of the three hundred plus membership that helped achieve this national award.

The Sudler Trophy is a national award that is bestowed each year of the best college marching band in the nation. The Sudler Trophy is the most prestigious honor a college marching band can attain. The winner of the award is determined by the votes of marching band directors all over the country. To be honored is to be greatly respected by fellow peers.

The Million Dollar Band is not only honored for its superb performances at every football game, but also for its hard work, sweat, and school spirit performed behind the scenes. From all day practices during band camp, afternoon practices every day, Saturday morning practices before kick-off, pep-rallies, Elephant Stomps, and special appearances in parades, the MDB is the backbone of Alabama football. Throughout the year, fans, athletes, and coaches express their appreciation for the MDB's support, school spirit, and pride.

No one can experience the true greatness of the Million Dollar Band like its members do. Stephanie experienced lows and highs of the MDB. Marching in one hundred degree weather and rain, lengthy night practices when two exams and a paper are due the next day, and waking up at six o'clock a.m. on game day to practice are the down sides, but the hard work is rewarded ten fold. There is not a better feeling than marching into Bryant-Denny and playing 'Yea, Alabama' for the first time, marching on the field in front of 80,000 football fans, or celebrating with the Crimson Tide players in Knoxville, Tennessee, after breaking the Volunteers' eight year winning streak. The honor, praise, and support the Million Dollar Band received is appreciated, according to Stephanie.

Not only was Stephanie a member of a nationally honored band, but she also participated in the last MDB that performed under the direction of Kathryn Scott. Scott raised the band to its national status during her twenty-seven years with the MDB. Scott retired after the MDB's amazing half-time performance at the Rose Bowl. Stephanie considers herself proud and honored to be a member of such a respected and praised organization. Stephanie is the daughter of David and Phyllis Sasser, and the granddaughter of Charles and Sue Sasser, Drexel R. Kelley, and the late Annette Hutchison Kelley.

MacArthur State Technical College's Workforce Development and Continuing Education Division reaches out to business and industry to provide training for new and existing employees. This program allows workers to enroll in courses to improve current skills or learn new skills. Customized courses are developed to meet the specific needs of business and industry in any professional area. The classes are taught at the worksite or on the MacArthur Campus and are offered at a time and place that is most convenient for the business as well as the employees.

MacArthur's Workforce Development and Continuing Education Division provides a broad range of training and re-training opportunities for employers and their employees. The Workforce Development and Continuing Education Division's goal is to offer quality education programs and services that will meet the workforce training and re-training needs of the business community's public and private sectors.

During MacArthur's Spring Semester 2003, customized training was provided for the employees of Kelly Foods. The Workforce Development and Continuing Education Division provided Basic Windows 98/XP and Basic Excel 2000 training on-site at Kelly Foods in Elba. A total of 40 employees attended the 12-hour course.

The computer training was very beneficial for our sales force. In today's competitive environment you must stay ahead of your competition. The trainers were helpful, knowledgeable, and friendly," said Philip Tew, Sales Manager for Kelly Foods.

The training was conducted with use of MacArthur's mobile computer lab. The mobile computer lab consists of 15 notebook computers, which can easily be transported to businesses. The Windows and Excel training enabled MacArthur's Workforce Development and Continuing Education Division to provide training for Kelly Foods at a time and location that was most convenient for the business and their employees.

"This short course was a very informative class. The manner in which it was laid out was excellent. Having the laptops to work on as we went through the course was a wonderful hands-on experience. I would highly recommend this computer course for beginners as well as computer professionals," said Vicki Harrison, Customer Service Representative for Kelly Foods.

Outlined in the Basic Windows 98/XP course were: getting started with Windows, the Help feature, working with My Computer and Windows Explorer, managing files, and customizing the Windows desktop. The Excel segment of the training included Excel basics, entering and editing data, modifying a worksheet, using functions, formatting worksheets, printing, and creating charts.

"I learned a lot during the training sessions that will help me in performing my job. I learned a lot that I did not know. The Windows and Excel training were both enjoyable," stated Ramona Wambles, Buyer for Kelly Foods. MacArthur's Workforce Development and Continuing Education Division strives to meet the training needs of the community. If you are an employer seeking to increase productivity or an employee seeking to improve or upgrade job skills, please contact MacArthur's Workforce Development and Continuing Education Division at (334) 493-3573, ext. 244 for more information.

The grant was awarded from funds provided to the state through a program of the U.S. Department of Justice, ADECA.

The funds, which will be distributed among 55 law enforcement agencies, will allow law enforcement officials to monitor heavily traveled roads and areas where accidents frequently occur. Many of the extra patrols and traffic safety stops are planned around major national holidays or times when more people are traveling. Many of the major roads leading to the Gulf Coast are located within the 12-county area. Law enforcement agencies also plan to use a portion of the funds for traffic safety and preventive intervention programs.

THE PRESSBOX

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

School got out last week and that meant it was time to do some serious house cleaning for both the girls. Both were assured that leaving the house would depend on the condition of their rooms, and they were then reminded how to wash dishes and how to use the washing machine and the dryer. Now, if I can just get them out of bed in time to get something done!

SWINGS AND MISSES...

 Elba High School held its annual athletic award banquet last week at the Elba Recreation Center and after sitting through the event I had to admit that while the records of some of the teams were not as good as had been hoped for, it really wasn't all that bad a year for the Tigers. The football team had a 10-12 record despite starting three freshmen and the basketball team went 9-9 and advanced to the second round of the state tournament. The most successful boy's program had to be the Elba High golf team, which placed second in the state and for the third straight season finished in the top four at the state tournament. Over in the girl's program, the volleyball team struggled, but continued to make strides toward becoming a winning team, while the basketball team made it to sub-region action and the softball team was ranked in the top ten in the state all season and made it to sub-state before seeing its season end. There were no state titles for the Elba High teams. However, there were plenty of trophies on display and it was easy to see that the student-athletes at Elba High form a proud fraternity.

 There will apparently be quite a few coaching changes in the Coffee County system when the new school year opens in August. There will be a new football coach at Zion Chapel and New Softball coaches at Zion Chapel, Kingston and New Brockton. Most of the changes were made by the former coaches who decided to step down and concentrate on other sports, while the change in football at Zion Chapel was expected after the Rebels' 0-10 season a year ago. The changes prove that the people in charge want the best for the student-athletes, and maybe the changes will pump new life into the programs.

 Troy State became an official member of the Sun Belt Conference over the weekend and the move will pay huge dividends for the Trojans in all sports. The Sun Belt has been in existence for many years and has become one of the nation's top mid-major conferences. Football fans can expect the Trojans to start playing such teams as Arkansas State, Idaho, Louisiana Lafayette, Middle Tennessee, New Mexico State, North Texas State and Utah State, and the home-and-home conference schedule will help Troy State fill out a balanced schedule and give the home fans more games to see. The Troy State baseball team will jump into a conference that includes such powers as Florida International, South Alabama and New Orleans, while in basketball the Trojans will face a tough road against such teams as Middle Tennessee, Western Kentucky, Denver, New Mexico State and South Alabama. The same teams will be around to compete in softball and other sports, and there can be no doubt the move will create a lot of interest for all Troy State teams.

 Baseball fans in Montgomery were all excited when it was announced a new stadium would be built in the Capitol City and that the Orlando Rays were headed to town. However, many of those same fans were less than excited last week when it was announced that the name of the new Double A Minor League team would be the Montgomery Biscuits. The new name was chosen from a list of names submitted in a contest, and the name Biscuits was picked because it was said biscuits were a southern treat and everyone liked biscuits. Maybe so, but it is clear that everyone doesn't like the name for the new baseball franchise.

 In closing... I would like to say a public good-bye and thanks to Mike Williams, the principal at Elba High School the past three years. I am big into Tiger pride and believe that everyone that attends Elba High or attended Elba High should take pride in their school and be there to help whenever called upon. Mike Williams was only a member of the Elba family for three years, but he took as much pride in his position, his staff and his students as any principal that has ever been in Elba. His decisions may not have always been the most popular, but I always felt they were from the heart and were based upon what he thought was best for all of Elba High. Thanks, Coach, you will always be an Elba Tiger!

Zion Chapel falls to Geneva County
33-6 in spring football jamboree

The Zion Chapel Rebels capped off a short spring football practice on Friday night with a spring game against the Geneva County Bulldogs and came out on the short end of a 33-6 final score.

Geneva County scored on its opening position to grab a quick 6-0 lead, then took advantage of a Zion Chapel fumble to up its advantage to 13-0 late in the opening stanza. The Bulldogs made it 20-0 early in the third quarter and later added two additional third quarter scores to carry a 33-0 lead into the final stanza.

Zion Chapel got on the scoreboard in the final stanza following a fumble recovery by Macon Hodge. The Rebel touchdown came on a 21-yard scamper by Derek Taylor.
